AUSTRALIAN BRAVERY

A MESSAGE FROM

His Excellency General
the Honourable Sir Peter
Cosgrove AK MC (Retd)

The Australian honours system is a vital part of our social fabric. Honours help define, encourage and reinforce our national aspirations, ideals and standards by identifying those among us who make an outstanding contribution to our society.

The recipients of Australian honours and awards are very special men and women whose actions have set them apart and enriched our community across a broad range of professional, public and community service sectors.

In their daily lives these admirable people demonstrate those values that we as a nation hold dear—compassion, civility, dedication, courage, kindness, tolerance, and energetic ambition. They inspire us all to be more enthusiastic and giving, to uphold the responsibility of being fully engaged citizens.

On behalf of all Australians, I congratulate and thank all recipients of honours and awards, past and present. I highly regard your contribution and deeply appreciate your generosity of spirit. You are a source of motivation to us all.

QUITE SIMPLY, OURS IS A FAR RICHER AND STRONGER COMMUNITY BECAUSE OF YOU—WELL DONE.

INTRODUCTION

The Australian Bravery Decorations date from the establishment of the Australian honours system in February 1975. The decorations recognise acts of bravery by people whose selfless actions amaze and inspire us, those who put themselves in jeopardy to protect the lives or property of others.

There are four levels of awards for individuals, as well as an award to recognise the bravery of a group of people involved in a single incident. The awards, commencing with the highest, are:

- Cross of Valour—awarded for acts of the most conspicuous courage in circumstances of extreme peril
- Star of Courage—awarded for acts of conspicuous courage in circumstances of great peril
- Bravery Medal—awarded for acts of bravery in hazardous circumstances
- Commendation for Brave Conduct—conferred for other acts of bravery which are considered worthy of recognition

The group award is known as the Group Bravery Citation. This award was introduced in March 1990 and is awarded for a collective act of bravery by a group of persons in extraordinary circumstances that is considered worthy of recognition.

Anyone may nominate any other person for an act of bravery, and the awards are not exclusively for Australian citizens. A person who is a citizen of another country, who carries out an act in Australia that would result in a bravery award being made, is eligible. Another factor is location. The brave act does not need to have occurred in Australia or to have been carried out by an Australian citizen, provided that the act itself was considered worthy of recognition in the interest of Australia.

Another notable feature is access to the awards by members of Australia’s armed forces in times of peace, or in times of war, where the act of bravery was carried out in circumstances other than in actions against the enemy. Service personnel from other countries, whether in Australia or overseas, may also be eligible for these awards.

Nominations are considered by the Australian Bravery Decorations Council which is an independent advisory body that meets twice a year to consider nominations and make recommendations to the Governor-General for awards. The Council also recommends the level of awards.

There is no set timeframe for the announcement of bravery awards, although generally there are two announcements each year in March and in August.

Upon publication of their award, recipients are entitled to have the appropriate post nominals placed after their names on all occasions when the use of such letters is customary. Awards may be made posthumously and presented to the next-of-kin.
The Cross of Valour (Gold), Star of Courage (Silver) and Bravery Medal (Bronze) each have ribbons of different combinations of magenta and blood-red, symbolising the colours of venous and arterial blood. The commendation for brave conduct is mounted on a ribbon of plain arterial red colour. The Group Bravery Citation is a device which has a raised bronze sprig of wattle, centrally positioned on a silver rectangle.
THE CROSS OF VALOUR (CV)
Shall be awarded only for acts of the most conspicuous courage in circumstances of extreme peril

THE STAR OF COURAGE (SC)
Shall be awarded only for acts of conspicuous courage in circumstances of great peril
THE BRAVERY MEDAL
Shall be awarded only for acts of bravery in hazardous circumstances
