

Australian Bravery Decorations

NOMINATION FORM

The Australian Bravery Decorations are our own pre-eminent awards for the recognition of acts of bravery. Since the establishment of the Australian honours system in 1975 these awards have recognised acts of bravery by people whose selfless actions put themselves in jeopardy to protect the lives or property of others.

There are four levels of awards for individuals, as well as an award to recognise the bravery of a group of people involved in a single incident. The awards, commencing with the highest, are:

- Cross of Valour
- Star of Courage
- Bravery Medal
- Commendation for Brave Conduct

The group award is known as the Group Bravery Citation. It shall be awarded for a collective act of bravery, by a group of persons in extraordinary circumstances, that is considered worthy of recognition.

Particular features of the Australian bravery awards are:

- Awards may be made posthumously and presented to the next of kin.
- The brave act does not need to occur in Australia, provided it is considered worthy of recognition by Australia and in Australia's interest.

What is Bravery?

Brave acts usually involve a deliberate choice to go from a place of safety to danger or remain in a perilous situation to provide help to another. Acts involving the preservation of life, (for example, first aid) while admirable, may not be considered brave.

Who may make a nomination?

Anyone may make a nomination by completing the nomination form.

Who can be nominated?

- Australian Citizens
- A person who is a citizen of another country and who carries out an act that may be considered worthy of recognition by Australia and in Australia's interest.
- Members of Australia's armed forces who carry out an act in times of peace, or of war (where the act was carried out in circumstances other than in actions against the enemy).
- Service personnel from other countries, whether in Australia or overseas.

How are nominations assessed/decided?

Nominations are assessed by the Australian Bravery Decorations Council, which is an independent advisory body consisting of fourteen members including representatives of each state and territory, two ex-officio members and four community members. The Council meets twice a year to consider all nominations and make recommendations to the Governor-General for awards.

Confidentiality

All nominations are strictly confidential and the information provided will be used only to assist the Council in considering the merits of the nomination. The Australian Honours and Awards Secretariat keeps all nominations confidential to respect privacy and to avoid disappointment if an award is not made. We ask for the cooperation of nominators and others involved in respecting this policy.
